PUBLISHED DAILY AND TRI-WEEKLY AT mixture is something awful.

It is a deplorable fact, but a fact nev-believe it is the fault of the men at the motor-house at all, but rather lasiness or a lack of carbons, I don't know which, that prevents the men from giving some of the most important lights in the city proper attention. It looks very much like culpable negligence when, on a dark night, we find here and there all over the city lights that are not lights and it makes one cell very "raspy." Let's give them another chance for further improvement, however.

BEGRIES ATRICA STRICA ST As yet I have not had an opportunity to get certain information in regard to the other city institution which I promthe other city institution which I promised to write about this week, but look out for it in my next. I know a great many facts in the case, but there are several things I want to know yet and I don't want to "go off half-cocked."

It is not generally known among the friends of a popular, but withal very modest young society man, that he deserves a medal from the United States life-saving service for bravery in rescuip people from drowning. I am told ing people from drowning. I am told that he has saved the lives of no less than five people, three boys and two men, and in each case they were so far gone that he had to dive in order to save them. On one occasion he broke through quite a thick skim of ice about where he thought the man gone down. His assistance has always been voluntary, and of course without reward. I would like to give his name but he does not but he does not court notoriety, and I do not care to hold him up as an object for public curiosity. Think of the re-nown that could be woven about this young man's life if only a young, beau-tiful and rich girl would "flop" over-board right under his nose a blenk, wintry day. I can almost see him st.l. throw off his overcoat, coat and hat the always wears his watch on these submarine tours, I believe, so he would enty retain his waistcoat) and plunge into the icy waves. There would be a few silent moments of suspense and then he would be seen to rise to the surface holding firmly in his arms the manimate form of the heroine and with a few bold strokes he would land her safely on the wharf. But now comes the embarrassing question. Would be proceed to resuscitate her by the same means that he employed with those men and boys? Poor modest fellow, how could be surmount this difficulty and preserve the romance intact.

I witnessed a very amusing incident on Pennsylvania avenue a few nights ago. A well known young man from this city had evidently gone to Washington to celebrate something and he was doing it right royally. When I saw him he appeared to be very much alarmed at the disastic. Yet the disastic with a disastic that the disastic with a serior of my sense. saw him he appeared to be very much alarmed at the direction Mr. Ben. Franklin, who can always be found in front of the Trader's National Bank, was painting. He had climbed as high PRICES. as his confused condition would allow and was making frantic offorts to strike the outstretched finger with his cane.

An officer came up and asked what he was trying to do, at the same time aswas trying to do, at the same time assisting him to the ground. His reply was "He'sh goin' to shoot right into that housh an' I wanter break his haim." The officer advised him not to do it as the penalty for breaking an aim like that would be very severe. I asked to be allowed to pilot the uniform. asked to be allowed to pilot the unfort-unate to the depot, saying he lived in Alexandria. In the most exasperating tone he said "Ah, that explains it, but he allowed my fellow-townsman to go with me, so I wisely kept my peace.
